Avila and Segovia
"Cultural Heritage Cities"

AVILA: Known as Avila de los Caballeros (Avila of the Knights) or Avila de los Santos (Avila of the Saints) its great 11th century Roman wall surrounds the old city and retains much of its monumental grandeur. More than a city it has the look of a grand castle. It has a large number of Romanesque churches, Gothic cathedrals and a fortified cathedral dating from the 12th century. It was here that St. Teresa of Jesus, a major mystic of the Roman Catholic church, was born. A stop will be made at the Hill of the Four Posts to take in one of the finest views of the city. There will be a visit to the outside of the Cathedral,
